

CLE Process

For the IBA/IFA Joint Conference, the two plenary sessions qualify for CLE credits.

To comply with state policies, the virtual platform will be tracking which sessions you attend and for how long so it can be reported to applicable states for CLE credit. It will work the same when participating in sessions live or on-demand.

The number of credits attendees can earn is based on the plenary sessions attended and the number of credits offered by the state. To receive the maximum number of credits, attendees must participate in both plenary sessions during the program or on-demand.

IFA will submit attendance to applicable states that attendees participated in on May 18-19th. It is up to the attendee to submit for CLE credits to their state for any on-demand sessions attended. A certificate of attendance will be automatically emailed to you once you complete the on-demand session.

IFA is applying for CLE credits for below states but more states may be added after the event pending registrations. IFA can provide necessary documentation for lawyers registering credits after the event for any state not listed below.

Due to the move to virtual events, reporting CLE credits for your state may have changed. Please refer to the chart below for any action’s attendees may have to take post-event to receive credit.

Course approvals may come in at different times. We will update the IBA/IFA Joint Conference website as we receive more accreditations.

State	# of CLE Credits	Application Status	Post Event
California	Pending	Submitted	IFA will follow-up with the certificate of attendance.
Illinois	2.0	Approved	IFA will submit attendance after May 20 th following the Symposium and IBA/IFA Conferences. Further information regarding the certificates is forthcoming.
New York	Pending	Submitted to IL, PA, TX, and VA which are part of the New York Jurisdiction	New York attorneys simply retain the certificate of attendance, download any session materials when participating in the program, and include the qualifying out-of-state credits when they report their CLE status to New York. Attorneys do not send related documents to the CLE Board for review, unless specifically asked to do so.
Pennsylvania	2.0	Approved	IFA will submit attendance after May 20 th and will email attendee the IFA certificate of attendance.

Texas	Pending	Submitted	IFA will submit attendance after May 20 th and will email attendee the state certificate of accreditation. There will be a QR code in the document for the lawyer to scan which reports directly to the state.
Virginia	Pending	Submitted	IFA will send an IFA certificate of attendance with reference number from the state. The lawyer then must self-report to the state with reference number.
